Wave Of Illness Shows Signs Of Letup In County Schools

MONROE COUNTY schools appeared yesterday to have turned the tide against respiratory illnesses.

Three West End schools remained closed and will stay closed until Monday. But in all other area schools administrators expressed hope that "the worst was over."

There were decreases in the number of absences in nearly all of the schools reporting. Among the reports:

At Stroud Union School District, Alfred W. Munson, principal of the high school, reported there were only 250 students absent out of a total 940 enrollment. The absence total for yesterday was 150 below that for Monday (400).

54 Deaths Due To Flu Reported In Pennsylvania

By The Associated Press

PENNSYLVANIA had the second highest death toll in the nation's flu epidemic with 54 reported in the Commonwealth Tuesday.

Only New York reported a higher death count.

Boys Struck By Car In Barrett Twp.

MOUNTAINHOME—Two boys were injured, one seriously, when they were struck by an automobile on Route 390 in Barrett Township.

Jay Shoemaker Jr., Mountainhome, was removed to the Monroe County General Hospital in the Barrett ambulance for treatment of a fractured right leg and other injuries. His condition was fair.

The other boy, Leo Smith, Canadensis, was treated at the scene by Dr. Harold A. Tattersall and taken to his home.

Mount Pocono State Police identified the driver as Edward R. Capers Jr., Buck Hill Falls. Capers said the boys darted into the path of his 1951 sedan. Shoemaker was hit by the front of the car and Smith by the left rear door.

Stocks Skid To New Lows; Sales Heavy

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP)—The stock market dropped to its lowest point in more than 2½ years in another hectic trading session today.

Prices swayed back and forth throughout the day, brokerage house board rooms were crowded with customers, the ticker tape ran behind floor transactions and market experts gave varying opinions on what would happen next.

Several large mutual funds, which command huge resources, said they had been buying stocks on a selected basis and one large brokerage house reported there were buying orders in the market from big investment companies.

Nevertheless, at the end of the day the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was at a new low since Jan. 18, 1955.

$5,090,000 Shares

That average closed at $150.90, off 70 cents. The Dow-Jones industrial index closed at 419.79, off 3.27. While the market weakened, its loss was much less than yesterday's when the AP average tumbled $5.10.

Volume for the day totaled 5,090,000 shares compared with 4,670,000 yesterday. This was the most active session since Sept. 27, 1955, following President Eisenhower's heart attack. Volume that day amounted to 5½ million shares.

One of the most widely held stocks was also one of the most conspicuously weak — American Telephone and Telegraph. It closed at $160.50, off $3.25 and at a new low for the year.

Other stocks going lower included Union Carbide, United Aircraft and General Motors. But small gains were posted by such important stocks as United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel.

Shelter Need For Fallouts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Two Civil Defense officials today urged a national program to provide shelter against fallout as the only effective way to cut casualties in the event of heavy nuclear attack.

They estimated casualties from such an attack at many, many millions.

Jack C. Greene, director of the radiological research division of the Federal Civil Defense Administration, and Dr. Max M. Van Zandt, director of FCDA's health office, both emphasized the need of shelters to protect against radioactive fallout.

Milford Man Killed When Car Overturns

MILFORD — A 76-year-old area man was fatally injured in a one-car accident near his home on Route 209 at 12:20 p. m. yesterday.

Emil Junghans of Milford died in St. Francis Hospital, Port Jervis, N. Y., of head injuries received in the crash.

State Police said the accident occurred as Junghans attempted to start his car at his home, located on Route 209 and about 20 feet higher than the road.

The vehicle careened over a bank and landed on its top on the highway. Trooper Robert Smith investigated.

13 Americans Wounded By Terror Bombs

SAIGON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Terrorist time bomb blasts injured 13 American servicemen and 5 Asians today while the city was playing host to a 21-nation conference on Asian aid.

The attacks apparently were aimed at damaging American prestige before an international audience.

Diplomatic sources said the Communist Vietnamese apparently mistook the blasts. They ripped a U.S. Information Agency library, a military bus and a hostel.

The anti-American manifestations seemed designed mainly to embarrass President Ngo Dinh Diem's anti-Communist Viet Nam government, one source said.

Sought Publicity

"The terrorists were out to get some publicity," he added, "and they chose the Americans to get it."

Washington officials also laid the attack to Communist agents. Diem's government reacted swiftly. A roundup of suspects was reported. U.S. military officials cooperated in the investigation. Diplomats said the Saigon police force, ordinarily around 8,000 men, was increased to 14,000. Police detachments were stationed at all major intersections tonight. Officers appeared to be guarding every other house in the city. Each ranking delegate to the aid conference session, which has drawn more than 200 representatives to Saigon, was given an armed escort.

Both Asian and Western nations are represented at the conference, opened by Diem Monday, to discuss current and future Colombo Plan operations for cooperative development of southeast Asia.

The Colombo Plan was organized by British commonwealth nations for mutual aid in the manner of the American Point Four and other programs.

Asian casualties of the blasts were four Vietnamese and a Chinese.

Flu Cancels Health Talks

DES MOINES, Oct. 22 (AP)—Postponement of the north central states College Health Conference, scheduled here Oct. 25-26, was announced today. Too many of the delegates have influenza.

A new date will be set when the outbreak declines.

Ike, Baruch Talk

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower visited with Bernard Baruch today, and the reunion of the two old friends touched off Wall Street rumors.

schools, Roger A. Dunning, supervisor, reported 455 pupils were absent yesterday morning. The new total was a decline of 22 from Monday.

Students returned to school in large numbers, also at East Stroudsburg Area Jointure. There were only 432 absent out of an enrollment of 2,050, according to the office of Carl T. Secor, supervising principal near Hamilton Township School near Scota, Edward Doney, principal, reported that the school will remain open. Doney said that an encouraging number of students returned to classes yesterday morning. There were 105 out of 237 students present in the school, he said. Although the number was still not as high as officials might have liked it, Doney said that all members of the teaching staff were in good health and there were indications students would return in larger numbers today.

Pocono Mountain Joint Schools—lightest hit of all schools in Monroe County—showed a slight increase in the number absent. But the percentage was still (17 percent) far below that in any other large district so far.

Comparison Given

C. Willis Dunlap, joint supervising principal, released these school-by-school figures on absences, with Monday's figures in parentheses after new totals:

Barrett Township School at Canadensis—108 (98) out of 468 or 23 percent; Coolbaugh Township School at Tobyhanna—14 (13) out of 258 or 5 percent; Jackson Township School at Readers—40 (36) out of 101 or 39 percent; Mount Pocono Borough School—14 (14, same as before) out of 98 or 14 percent; Paradise Township School at Swiftwater—11 (12) out of 88 or 12.5 percent; Pocono Township School at Tannersville—88 (92) out of 398 or 22 percent; Tobyhanna Township School at Pocono Pines—28 (27) out of 234 or 12 percent.

In Monroe County's West End area, Pleasant Valley Joint School were ordered closed Monday by supervising principal John C. Mills. The decision to close the three schools—in Chestnut Hill, Polk and Eldred townships—was due as much to absences of teaching and custodial personnel as to illness among students.

Mills explained on Monday that qualified substitute teachers are no longer available. Most of those on the district's substitute lists are now teaching full time in other areas, he said.

Stork In Uniform

DETROIT (AP)—Four Detroit patrolmen have been honored with special department citations as expert midwives. The quartet has delivered 23 babies in scout cars and patrol wagons on the way to hospitals.

Queen Returns To London From Triumphant U. S. Tour

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II came back today from her triumphant American tour to a rousing reception at home.

Prime Minister Macmillan met the royal plane, interrupting hurried preparations for his own flight to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower opening tomorrow.

About 4,000 Londoners waiting outside Buckingham Palace surged through police cordons and surrounded the royal limousine in a demonstration of affection for the Queen.

"We want the Queen," they chanted.

Thousands hung around the palace for a half hour for Elizabeth and Philip reached home in the hope the Queen might come out on the balcony overlooking the palace yard. They dispersed gradually after a police officer announced:

"The Queen is having her tea, and I want to go and have mine."

U.N. Gives Saud Chance To Mediate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—The U. N. tonight suspended for three days its bitter Middle East debate pending mediation efforts by King Saud of Saudi Arabia.

The three day suspension was proposed by Syria after the United States had suggested and Paraguay had formally proposed an indefinite waiting period.

The 82-nation General Assembly approved the delay by a vote of 37 to 10 with 34 abstentions.

Sentiment for delaying debate grew quickly among non-Communist delegations after U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge welcomed the efforts by King Saud to mediate the crisis and appealed to Syria to match "the good faith" of Turkey by agreeing to take part in mediation talks.

Lodge Applauded

Applause rippled through the assembly hall after Lodge declared "we welcome the efforts of this great leader. Let us give King Saud's offer a chance."

Syria voiced anew its charges that Turkey was about to launch an immediate attack across the Syrian border, and accused the United States and other Western powers of trying to pit one Arab state against the other.

Turkey asked the assembly to investigate the "hidden goals of Russia and Syria" in the Middle East. It charged that Syria is being changed "into an arsenal for exceeding its own needs."

Turkish Ambassador Seyfullah Esin said Minister of State Fatim Zolu was already on his way to Saudi Arabia.

Missile Test Center

Cape Canaveral, Fla., Oct. 22 (AP)—An intermediate range ballistic missile roared aloft from its wind whipped firing pad tonight shortly after 8 p. m.

The huge rocket was identified by the Pentagon as a Jupiter C. It may have been the Jupiter C which Army scientists have said is capable, with refinements, of launching a U. S. earth satellite.

The missile was fired from the area where previous Jupiters have been launched. Reports last week said a Jupiter C was ready for testing.

A rocket believed to be a Jupiter C was reported to have misfired last Friday night.

Trail of Fire

A brilliant glow appeared around the rocket about 8:05 p. m., and seconds later it began rising slowly, followed by a huge oval shaped trail of fire.

As it gained altitude, the roar increased and the flaming missile lighted up the entire area.

Immediately after the firing, the Miami Herald began getting telephone calls from citizens who said they saw a bright object pass overhead. Miami is about 300 miles south of here.

The missile firing range extends southeast from Cape Canaveral.

The rocket began turning towards the southeast as it went higher, vanished briefly in a cloud bank and then reappeared, looking like a huge star. It was visible for about 2½ minutes.

Lights Seen In Area Sky, Also Rocket

SEVERAL residents of the Reenders area last night reported seeing lights circling in the sky south of there.

Norman Possinger, Jr., one of those who called The Daily Record, said the lights were about the size of a water pail and sometimes grew larger.

He said they were circling in about a 200-foot area south of his residence.

Similar reports were heard from a number of other sections, including the Stroudsburgs.

Three Lights

Rev. C. Clyde Levergood, of Cherry Valley, said he watched three lights in the sky for a considerable time. He was unable to tell whether they were lights on an object or possibly reflections from a beacon on the ground.

Sputnik's rocket made its second consecutive night appearance about 7 p. m., but was seen for only about 10 minutes. It was first sighted in the southwest sky, then made a wide arc at about a 40 degree angle and disappeared over the northeast horizon.

$40,000 SMILES—Monroe County Industries, Inc., yesterday received a check for a $40,000 loan from the Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority. Seated are John T. Gross of Allentown, deputy secretary of commerce for the state, and Alex Bensinger, attorney for the industrial group. Standing is Arthur Schiebel, president of Trumatic Machine and Tool Co., Inc., which will receive $24,000 of the money. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Eisenhower Plans Talk

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower tonight disclosed plans to go before the people in the next few weeks to bolster confidence in this nation's scientific, national defense and domestic economy programs.

The President's announcement of his plans to speak in various sections of the country came in a nationwide radio address — and against the background of Russia's satellite and ballistic missile progress.

"We must cast aside any morbid pessimism," Eisenhower declared.

Administration officials pictured Eisenhower as determined to convince Americans that this country's scientific, defense and economy programs are sound and going ahead in good fashion.

Aides said the President plans from four to six speeches, some of them outside Washington. The President was expected to start the series soon, and the talks may continue into next year.

Eisenhower, in a speech prepared for delivery at a Hotel Waldorf-Astoria dinner, made no direct mention of Russia's launching of an earth satellite and the Soviet claim it has successfully fired an intercontinental missile.

His theme, at the dinner sponsored by the National Fund for Medical Education, was this country's urgent need for more doctors, additional medical personnel, and expanded health facilities.

An hour after the President's prepared text was distributed, the White House put out a brief preface to his remarks. It disclosed his plans to speak in the near future regarding the country's progress in the science fields.

Judge Extends Ban On Hoffa

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts today extended his ban against James R. Hoffa's taking over as president of the Teamsters Union. This set the stage for a further court battle.

Letts capped two days of heated arguments between attorneys for the 1½-million-member union and a 13-man, anti-Hoffa New York Teamsters group by announcing that he will sign a preliminary injunction tomorrow.

The injunction will continue, until the case is tried on its merits, a temporary ban which the 82-year-old judge had issued to keep Hoffa from succeeding Dave Beck in the union's top job.

Russian Aide Aids Fund Drive

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 22 (AP)—A Russian Embassy official dropped $10 in the kitty for the local United Fund charity drive today and put in a good word for friendship between the Western powers and the Soviets.

Vladimir Lavrov, counselor at the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D. C., declared that, "We are ready to destroy our intercontinental ballistic missile immediately if all powers are willing to do the same."

$40,000 Check Presented For Industrial Development

THE PENNSYLVANIA Industrial Development Authority yesterday presented a $40,000 check to Monroe County Industries, Inc., as the major installment of a $61,000 loan the industrial group has arranged with the authority.

John T. Gross of Allentown, deputy secretary of commerce for the state, made the presentation. Also taking part was Paul G. Perry of Burgin, Ruffin, Perry and Pohl, Pittsburgh, attorney representing the authority.

Of the $40,000, $24,000 will be given to the Trumatic Machine and Tool Co., Inc., based on the firm's completion of 60 percent of its construction in East Stroudsburg.

The remainder of the $61,000 will be used to bring a new industry, B. Weltzman Co., to the Harris St. plant of Ronson Co. in East Stroudsburg.

Promotion Is Discussed By Shortway Unit

CLEARFIELD, Oct. 22 (AP)—The promotion committee of the Keystone Shortway held a meeting tonight to discuss plans for promotion of the new roadway from Stroudsburg to Sharon.

The Shortway has been approved as part of the interstate highway system but its exact route has not been announced.

However, some 25 residents of nine communities which will have access to the road discussed plans to attract out-of-state industry to locate along the Shortway. Other tentative promotion plans also were talked over at the meeting. Z. H. Confair of Williamsport presided.

Plans also were discussed for a groundbreaking ceremony which probably will be held about the middle of next year.

Communities represented at the session were Clearfield, Phillipsburg, State College, Brookville, DuBois, Emporium, Sharon, Williamsport and Sharpville.

Ike, Dulles Study Pooling Of Secrets

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles today outlined proposals for a Western scientific pool they reportedly favor in the missiles and satellites race with Russia.

They discussed this during a 70-minute White House meeting to lay the groundwork for Eisenhower's conference starting tomorrow with British Prime Minister Macmillan.

Macmillan, accompanied by his top scientific and foreign policy advisers, is due to arrive by plane tomorrow morning for three days of secret strategy talks.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty declined to disclose the topics discussed by Eisenhower and Dulles during their advance strategy session today.

Partnership

Authoritative officials reported that the Eisenhower-Dulles meeting dealt mainly with the scope of the Western scientific partnership that should be arranged in the wake of Russia's scientific advances.

Macmillan was reported to have given advance notice he wants a big British-American program which would involve dividing up specific scientific tasks as well as sharing each other's secrets.

Eisenhower and Dulles were reported undecided yet about the kind of scientific cooperation they consider necessary.

Country Doctor New Haiti Head

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 22 (AP)—Country doctor Francois Duvalier took over today as president of an impoverished Haiti torn by political feuds and financial strife. Martial law was cancelled and troops returned to their garisons.

Duvalier, 48, a champion of Haiti's deep blacks, was sworn in for a six-year term as the Negro republic's 34th president.

He is the first elected president since Gen. Paul Magloire, who was ousted last December for trying to extend his term illegally. Since then Haiti has had six government upheavals, some of them bloody. A military junta headed by Brig. Gen. Antonio Kereau took over in June. Duvalier succeeds the junta.

Volcanic Eruption

HORTA, Oct. 22 (AP)—The Azores had an alarming new volcanic eruption today near Fayal Island, scene of recent upheavals that gave birth to a new island. The new crater, 7,000 feet up on Pico Island, 4 miles east of Fayal, began spouting at dawn.

Bangor Man Fatally Hurt During Work

BANGOR — A 28-year-old Bangor man's left foot was caught in the worm of a conveyor machine at a quarry here yesterday at noon. He died en route to Easton Hospital an hour later.

The man was identified by company officials as William Snyder. He was employed by the Exalite Corp. at its quarry in Bangor.

Officials said Snyder had been working for the company one year. At 12:30 p. m. yesterday, witnesses said that he caught his left foot in the worm of the conveyor machine. The machine is used to crush coal and slate simultaneously at the quarry.

Pulled Into Machine

The worm of the machine — a spiraling metal device which turns material in the manner of a bit, pulling material toward the crushing section of the machine — pulled Snyder's leg into the machine up to his hip before it could be stopped, witnesses said.

Emergency equipment — including a burning machine — were brought into use immediately to cut gears on the machine, company officials said. After gears and other metal on the machine were cut, Snyder was pulled free.

But Dr. F. W. Fritzsche, local physician and Snyder's fellow workers struggled for almost an hour to free him.

Dr. Fritzsche administered first aid at the scene of the accident. He ordered Snyder taken to Easton Hospital in the Liberty Fire Department ambulance which was standing by. The physician also ordered that Snyder be given oxygen supply en route to the hospital.

Shock, Hemorrhage

Hospital authorities in Easton, however, said the man was dead on arrival there. They listed shock and excessive loss of blood as the cause of death.

Snyder is survived by his wife, the former Rose Villano of Roseto and two daughters, Laura Lee, 5, and Audrey, 3, all of 128 S. Ninth St., Bangor.

Besides his wife and two children, Mr. Snyder is survived by his parents, William C. and Gertrude Hendershot Snyder; four sisters, Mrs. Arlene Geake, Mrs. Betty Shoup and Miss Joyce Snyder, all of Bangor and Mrs. Pauline Altomere, Pen Argyl.

Pen Argyl Native

He was born in Pen Argyl but had lived the past seven years in Bangor, where he became a foreman at the Exalite Corp. plant. He was a member of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Roseto, where Requiem Mass will be held Friday at 10 a. m. following a 9:15 service in a Bangor funeral home. Interment will be made in New Catholic cemetery, Roseto.

A brother, Pvt. Carl J. Snyder, was killed in action in Italy during World War Two.

Foodstuffs Presented At Services

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Harvest Home Day was celebrated in the Methodist Church Sunday morning. Many gifts of food stuffs decorated the front of the church, arranged by Mrs. Nelson Lightner and Mrs. John Staples.

Five members of the children's choir — John Sipiroth, Robert Smith, Dianne Widdoss, Jennifer Richards and Linda Kitchen—sang a special number. Harold Akers had the Scripture reading, Rev. Lawrence Monk led the prayers.

Forrest Smith gave the message. His topic was "My Father's Business." He spoke of attending a state convention of realtors recently and of his surprise when the main speaker, Realtor Kenneth S. Keyes of Miami, Fla., urged his 500 listeners to take God into partnership in their business.

Keyes said his own firm have daily worship service with all the employees. He also gave those present leaflets on the duty and benefit of stewardship and tithing. Smith urged parents to feel that it is their business to train their children for the Lord by daily Bible reading and prayer together and that this would lead to faithful service in the church and church school.

Bangor Firemen To Get Vaccine

BANGOR — Members of the Rescue Fire Co. who wish to receive flu shots should contact the fireman or assistant fireman of the company immediately for arrangements.

It also has been noted that members of the local police department are scheduled to receive flu shots.

Scouts Seek Charter For Explorer Unit

REV. Harold C. Eaton yesterday announced that the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church has applied for a charter to the Boy Scouts of America as sponsors of a Sea Explorer unit, first of its kind in this area.

In carrying out the basic principal Scouting as set forth by the National Council, the new unit hopes to eventually serve as an emergency unit, specializing in the field of radio communications.

Charter Review was held Oct. 9, outlining the goals for the coming year, registration of new members into the unit and installation of Committee members and advisers who are as follows:

Rev. Eaton, pastor; Alvin Van Driesen, pastor; Claude Heller, Sea Explorer adviser; Edward Louis Singer, assistant advisor; Oliver Wilson, chairman and services counselor; Floyd Minter, publicity chairman and social counselor; Gwyn Jones, outdoors counselor; Robert M. Gearhart, emergency service counselor and Andrew Choy, transportation chairman and Vocational Counselor.

Leaders Selected

The Sea Explorer unit held its first meeting Monday Oct. 21, at which time a quarterly program was voted on and these leaders installed: Joel Huffman, Yeoman; William Cyphers, senior crew leader; Claude Heller Jr., crew leader; Brian Farris and John Clifton, crewmen. The meeting closed with the showing of a film, "Ready For Sea", depicting Navy Life.

The unit is open to all boys 14 years of age or older, whether they have been members of the Scouting Movement or not and who are interested in a program which will be both interesting and educational.

Interested boys may contact Claude Heller, Phone 2699, or Alvin Van Driesen at Sears. Future Sea Explorer meetings will be held the first Monday of every month at 7:30 p. m. in East Stroudsburg Methodist Church.

Grange Told Farmers Need Bigger Return

READING, Pa., Oct. 22 (AP) — There is great need to eliminate the inequity of return to the farm compared with workers in other industries, the Pennsylvania Grange was told today.

The annual Grange convention heard state Grange Master J. Collins McSparran call for an extension of monopoly restrictions to agriculture as in other industries.

The Drumore, Lancaster County, grange official said "we must encourage a policy of abundance" both for the good of the state and the nation.

"We cannot allow the food supply of the nation," he said, "to be jeopardized by any other policy."

McSparran said that farm debt now totals 20 billions of dollars with farm income continuing on the decline.

Farmers, he told the 900 delegates, do not want to become "wards of a benevolent government" and by the same token do not want "tax dollars for a product."

"Something New Everyday"

Religion's Relationship To Science Is Discussed

NEWMAN CLUB members heard a discussion of the relationship between science and religion last night by Rev. John A. Esseff, their adviser, and assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Parish.

In his talk, Fr. Esseff pointed to application of the general topic as the relationship of the world's origin according to evolutionary process rather than the seven-day creation which appears in Genesis.

He said that in this respect scientist if he was not an atheist, traditiorist: That science gives Man knowledge of faith and the truths revealed by God.

Empirical science, Fr. Esseff said, is like a mirror reflecting physical reality; religion is like a mirror reflecting supernatural reality. Each of these is complementary to the other, giving Man more complete knowledge of reality, he said.

No Contradiction

"The intellectual man of faith sees no contradiction between the world's origin by an evolutionary process guided and directed by God and the Biblical account of creation contained in Genesis," he said. "In Genesis the author, Moses, uses the cosmic and scientific concepts already existing in the minds of the Jews in order to teach supernatural revelation—that God is the author of all things."

"He uses the very homely example of creation in seven days in order to impress upon his hearers this supernatural truth of God's authorship," he continued. "Moses was interested in teaching who created the world and what God created rather than how it was created."

"If the evolutionist excludes God from the process of creation then he does not remain in the field of science. He has stepped over into the field of philosophy and theology," he said. "He is, therefore, a very, very poor theologian and an even poorer scientist."

"When he was admitted to the French Academy, the famed bacteriological scientist Louis Pasteur was asked by another scientist if he was no an atheist. It was, at that time, the fashion among scientists of the 19th century to deny the existence of God. Pasteur said to the man: 'I believe now as much as the French peasant. If I had more

Chest A Real Bargain

What's a bargain? There are any numbers of answers to that question, but the one we think is especially timely this month comes from Walter S. Peeney, who has long been active in local civic and charity activities.

In a friendly "chat with the editor," Mr. Peeney came up with a number of sensible observations. To get the full impact of what he said, it's best to quote him directly.

"It occurred to me the other day that Community Chest campaign people would be around to see me soon," Mr. Peeney began.

"As chairman of the Chest campaign for two years, I know what a terrific job it is to solicit and knowing that the solicitors give of their time and money, my heart went out to them for the good they are doing.

"Then I got to thinking how much worse it would be if they again asked me to do the soliciting for then I would have to work AND give.

"Really, the men and women who do the work on these joint fund-raising campaigns are downright heroes. What do they get out of it? Nothing—except the opportunity to wear out their shoe leather, meet some old sourpusses at the door, sometimes get insulted. Of course, they do get some satisfaction out of getting a big job done, and they do meet a lot of nice people, too.

"Well, after thinking these thoughts, I decided I was going to be one of nice people. Maybe you will conclude the same for yourself.

"Right good system, this Community Chest Campaign. Under it our ordinary citizens collect from ourselves, in one swoop, for a lot of good causes—for a whole bunch of health, welfare and recreation services.

"We do it pretty simply and pretty efficiently. We don't run the whole shebang through the mechanics of government, which would cost a lot more. We don't get ourselves involved in never-ending politics and all that sort of thing.

"After all, that's a bargain. Let's grab it, and be sweet about it. What do you say?"

A Lot Of Government

The American people are living under a lot of government.

A tabulation just made by the U.S. Census Bureau shows more than 102,000 government units—and the number is increasing rather than diminishing.

To start with there are the 48 states and the 3,068 counties in them. Then come more than 17,000 city governments and about the same number of town and township units.

School districts top the list. There are more than 50,000 of them. However, because of consolidations and annexations, the number of these has been diminishing during the last 15 years.

But faster than school districts have been consolidated, independent local government districts—known in Pennsylvania as authorities—have been multiplying. The nation now has more than 14,000 of them. They have been created to construct, or to operate, toll roads, toll bridges, airports, water works, sanitary disposal plants, public parking lots, school buildings, auditoriums and other municipal facilities.

Looking at these figures, it is no surprise to find 11 per cent of all civilians in the labor force are public employees. The Census Bureau breaks them down as follows: 3.3 per cent federal; 8.5 per cent teachers; 4.2 per cent state and local.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Ike Considers U.N. Talk

Washington, Oct. 22—President Eisenhower is discussing with Prime Minister Macmillan the advisability of personally going before the United Nations with a plan to ease the crisis and tensions threatening the peace of the world.

Proposed by Harold Stassen, special adviser on disarmament, this dramatic concept has the general approval of Secretary Dulles.

That is significant because these two State Department authorities have repeatedly clashed over policies and tactics. In fact, they are sharply at odds over another spectacular proposal that Stassen is pressing on the President.

It is to empower Stassen to go to Moscow "for face-to-face talks with the Kremlin rulers to ascertain just how sincere they are about disarmament."

Both Dulles and Prime Minister Macmillan are strongly against this idea.

Their unusual accord on that and other crucial problems confronting the U.S. and Britain is the underlying basis for Macmillan's hastily arranged conference in Washington.

These urgent conversations are directly due to Dulles. He went to exceptional lengths to bring them about because, for the first time in the nearly five years Dulles has headed the State Department, he and the British see eye-to-eye on critical issues of utmost moment to both countries.

This backstage change in relations is highly important.

In the past, Dulles and London were often at bitter loggerheads; at times, barely on speaking terms. Now their unity of viewpoint opens the way for getting together on policies and measures of far-reaching moment.

Curiously, a factor in this new-found cordiality is mutual coolness toward Stassen.

Like Dulles, the British have made little secret of their disapproval of Stassen's zeal in negotiating with the Soviet. This criticism reached the point last spring where Dulles flew to London expressly to intervene in Stassen's operation in the long-drawn-out disarmament parley there.

The cordiality Dulles established with Macmillan on this occasion has been considerably strengthened by recent developments.

Foremost among them is Russia's history-making earth satellite.

The Secretary of State and British Prime Minister are in complete agreement on the sinister military nature of this spectacular Soviet achievement. Both deem it a menace of direct impact that calls for unlimited counter efforts.

This unity of view is playing a significant role in the inner White House councils over the missiles issue.

Some of the President's advisers are opposed to a "crash program" to speed up the production of successful intermediate and intercontinental ballistic missiles—which the Russians claim they already have.

These advisers contend such urgent measures would end any hope of balancing the budget and cutting taxes next year.

This viewpoint was voiced by White House assistant Sherman Adams in his San Francisco speech last week. Another leading advocate is Budget Director Percival Brundage.

But foremost among those supporting Dulles' position is Vice President Nixon.

The widely-discussed speech he made several days after Adams, squarely differing with the latter's no-cause-for-alarm attitude, was prepared in close consultation with Dulles. Nixon's address is an accurate presentation of Dulles' stand.

It is also the opinion Macmillan is expressing in his talks with the President.

That is why Dulles arranged their get-together. He is bringing the Prime Minister's counsel to bear on this and other critical matters in the President's deliberations on them.

Uppermost among these fateful problems are:

Joint U. S.-British policy on the foregoing Turkish-Syrian crisis. On Cyprus and in the oil-rich sheikdoms on the Persian Gulf and Arabian Sea Britain has air and naval resources of high strategic value in the event of a Russian-Syrian attack on Turkey.

British request for IRBM and ICBM missiles as soon as they can be supplied. At the Bermuda conference last year, these long-range weapons were promised Britain by 1960. Macmillan is urging they be forthcoming by 1959, at the latest. Secretary Dulles is in full agreement on this.

Stassen is continuing his vigorous disarmament proselytizing. In these backstage efforts, he has been conferring with Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The former Minnesota Governor told one of them, "My job has just begun. There is nothing to those stories that I'm going to resign. They are being put out by unfriendly sources."

The desirability of direct talks with the Russians is now more important than ever. In Stassen's opinion, "He is confident they would welcome such discussions, and wants to undertake them."

But if he does, it will be over the vehement opposition of Dulles and Macmillan.

George Sokolsky Says...

Fugitive Sterns Complain

Martha Dodd Stern and Alfred Stern are fugitives from justice, who refuse to appear before an American court although they are accused of espionage.

From Prague to which they escaped from Mexico they issued a long statement, surely too long for this column, in which they protest their treatment and denounce the accusations against them.

In my younger years, I met Martha Dodd and found her an enchanting young lady. But it was limited to only one meeting; her husband I do not know. Their story is not an unusual one for the 1930's when wealth and position set out to save the world by the route of Stalinism, Communism, a brutal device.

Martha Dodd's father had been our ambassador to Germany. Alfred Stern possesses means. The Sterns' statement begins with the usual first paragraph of such documents:

"In the last weeks many newspapers, television, and the radio have given full coverage to a campaign of character assassination, a barrage of scurrilous propaganda against us. We therefore challenge the same press, television, and radio in the spirit of American 'fair play' to publish and issue this statement in full."

It was not generally published in full because it is too long, too repetitious, and really not too important.

It is in the third paragraph that they display that curious arrogance which is so often characteristic of Communists:

"Because we refused to appear before an inquisition of the New York Grand Jury who sent what our lawyers and we consider an illegal subpoena to us in Mexico we have been subjected to a well-planned campaign of vilification and slander. We have authorized our lawyers to take this case to the New York Court of Appeals and, if necessary, to the Supreme Court."

This, of course, is something new, namely, that anybody can reject a subpoena of a court or of a Congressional committee and not even put in an appearance and that each individual decides for himself what is legal and what is illegal. All the Sterns needed to do was to appear before the Grand Jury, make their defense and if indicted, stand trial before judge and jury. The Sterns are now fugitives from justice.

Giving their own history, this is what the Sterns have to say about themselves:

"Our progressive background is well known, open for everyone to review. It has been recently covered in the fullest detail by the press. We are proud of what we have stood for in the past and what we stand for now. We have fought against fascism and reaction for almost 25 years and tried to help build a progressive America."

"We have participated in the public housing movement, in the support of civil rights for all Americans; we have supported and defended the Spanish Loyalists and the Chinese struggle for liberation; we have been active in the American Labor and Progressive parties; we have written articles and books—which incidentally have not only been published in the United States and the socialist countries but also in England, France, Italy, West Germany, Scandinavia, Argentina, and Chile—made speeches, run for Congress, joined and helped finance organizations of all sorts dedicated to antifascism, peace, and democracy."

So this makes it perfectly clear that they adopted the Soviet line all the way through. It matters little what they called themselves; their own statement is evidence that they followed the party line rigidly. Even today when Alfred Stern's country and Martha Dodd's country may be in peril, these two could say in Prague:

"The ruling groups in the United States and elsewhere, instead of accepting the challenge of peaceful economic and political competition with the socialist countries, became deathly afraid of them and launched a national policy of cold war, dedicated to making greater and greater profits for the monopolists and to the oppression, if not the destruction, of mankind."

It is difficult to understand how anybody can hate his own country as bitterly as this paragraph indicates. I assure the reader that I am not quoting out of context, selecting however what I regard as significant in a very long statement. It would seem to me that if the Sterns are so antagonistic to their native land, they would stay here and attempt to reform the country. It all appears so pitifully pathological.

The Pennsylvania Story

Foretaste Of 1958

By Mason Denison Harrisburg — Pennsylvania Democratic leaders are not saying much about it but they are sharply disappointed over the results of their efforts to step up party registrations in the rural and suburban areas of the Keystone State.

As party strategists check and recheck the now tangible returns from the registration drive conducted over the late Summer and early Fall, this point has struck them cold:

The metropolitan areas came through with modestly flying colors but it is in these areas that they have enjoyed comparatively good support and growth anyway.

They were shooting for a bigger nip in the rural sections where Republicans consistently in recent years have held their greatest strength.

In this respect they did not make the grade they had been shooting for; in fact many are now concerned because they didn't even approach their original goal.

In the overall picture they unquestionably made inroads. This very fact alone has GOP chieftains on the worry seat. They cannot escape the fact that the Republican edge has once again been chipped away even more.

Privately, many a Republican chieftain is discouraged and extremely irritated over their own comparatively poor showing in the registration drive they themselves recently concluded.

They gain in total registration it is true, but not to the extent enjoyed by their arch-rivals.

At best, the reaction of both sides of the fence can be summed up in these words: we gained—or did we?

Thus what is seemingly a simple and well defined condition has become a complex battle of strategy.

Next year is the big show with top statewide offices at stake including the governorship.

As matters stand now both sides concede that there is no sense of decisiveness.

The comparatively small 347,000 edge Republicans enjoy at the moment is generally offset by the strategic fact that Democrats are the party in power.

This in itself is somewhat of a nullifying factor insofar as the Republican margin is concerned. Looking at the picture from this perspective it can be said that Pennsylvania Republicans and Democrats are pretty much on equal terms.

The big battle for the potential voter's right arm is yet to come.

Girding for 1958 the struggle will center almost exclusively on gaining extensive additional support from Pennsylvania's complex and highly controllable small city and rural vote.

Therein can be said to lie the success of next year's critical quadriennial election schedule.

Therein is where the bushes are expected to be pounded unmercifully as Republicans and Democrats vie for increased registration support.

Republicans are up to their neck in trouble in fighting to hold what little superiority remains particularly in the outlying areas of the state where they have been strong over recent years.

Pennsylvania Democrats on the other hand know full well that to retain the position they now hold they have no choice other than to build up their strength in these areas.

The registration fight for next year unquestionably will be unprecedented. This year was a brief foretaste.

Good Evening Ladies!

Boys' Mamas Merit Salute

By Ken Duval

This is addressed today to all mothers of two-year-old boy-type babies, of which there must be quite a few both in and out of sanatoria.

I have just returned from a one-day visit with some close relations who have one of these around the house and if I ever go back it will be to see him graduate from college, if he survives that long and is not killed by some crusty old visiting relative like myself.

I can't guess what became of one bedroom slipper, one tube of toothpaste, my copy of "Compulsion," which I hope he reads as a warning, and one sock. If he were a cocker spaniel puppy I could understand, but he is obviously of the same species I am, and the same sex, as he unashamedly demonstrated by taking off his pants and running outdoors with his pretty mother in hot pursuit.

My first encounter with this whatever-it-is, after the initial greetings, was in the bedroom where all I wanted to do was to change into slacks, sport shirt and sandals. I was openly stepped on him and was bitten on a bare leg. If I could trust that lower bridgework I'd have bitten him back. Maybe it's just as well I didn't because I think he could lick me with one hand tied behind him. If ever I saw a Notre Dame football in miniature this was it.

As I studied him, I thought I'd never seen such a handsome kid. He had eyes so big and blue he was startling. He is a two head and wears his hair in a bristling bunch. He is a mass of rippling muscle from head to foot. I patted him on the head just in time to get a squirt of toothpaste. I let out a pained cry and his mother came charging in. She wore a length of broken yardstick in her belt like a sword with which she rapped him across the rear. He laughed gaily and headed for the great outdoors with the tube.

My next experience with him came when I was sitting at the family bar trying to forget him. I became conscious that he was at my feet and wanted to climb up into my lap, probably to make up with me. What I didn't notice when I helped him up was that he was carrying a toy bucket filled with water. I haven't been so wet since I myself was his age.

His mother whipped out her sword and let him have it. His father, who is numbered among my idiot relatives, laughed merrily, heaved himself onto a stool and let out a cry of anguish. He had sat on a toy fire engine which, he swore, he'd have to have removed surgically.

A little later, we heard the toilet flush and I thought, well that's pretty preposterous, and a piping voice crying out triumphantly, "It's all gone!" We looked at one another and his father said, "What's all gone?" and everybody jumped off their stools to go see. I checked my wallet and glasses. It turned out to be just a fifth of fine scotch. He got another good one on the rear.

However, I think I got through to the kid later in the evening when I stepped on a Humpty Dumpty toy and nearly fainted when it cried out like a wounded animal and when I fell over a toy dump cart and sprawled on the floor. But this entente disappeared the next morning when he yanked the covers off me, screaming, "All Brownies up!" He got rapped for this, too.

If this kid's rear end holds up we may, after the passing of several years, become great pals. Meanwhile, I salute the mothers of all two-year-olds and ask them how they take it.

Queen Liz, leaving for home completely "bushed": "All this and Muggerridge, TOO!" Her Majesty endured it all with courage beyond the call of duty, but Philip did his bit to qualify for the Order of Fallen Arches and Knights of the Second Fiddle. He had to take equal punishment with a secondary post position. He finished gamely, although roughed up in the stretch by "Timetable," "Protocol" and "Agenda." America's enthusiasm was sincere but sympathy played a part. Here was a woman forever denied the right to toss things out of a traveling bag and cry, "I'm not going." A gal who could never shirk, "They can't do this to me!" or tell her hubby, "You take this trip, Buster. I know when I've had enough." A queen has it rough.

She can't go around with her hair in pin-curls, go down to a market in slacks, pick her own cruises or get out of a tiresome trip with the crack, "I haven't anything to wear." She must forever crush the impulse to suggest, "Let's ring doorbells," or "How about dancing on somebody's lawn in our bare feet?" Americans, looking at the Queen's tour, saw a young woman who perhaps often longed to exclaim, "Oh, no!" at the ordeal, but couldn't do so.

McElroy Is Hep To Problems

By Henry Cuthbert Central Press Writer

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy is apparently bringing some Proctor and Gamble know-how into the Defense Department.

The former president of the world's largest maker of soaps and detergents, who recently took over the job vacated by Charles E. Wilson, showed newsmen he had been doing some homework before arriving for work.

In his first news conference, the six-foot, four-inch Cabinet member displayed a thorough knowledge of the problems and mechanics of the department. He told newsmen he wanted to get rid of "bottle-necks" in the United States missile program in order to speed up launching America's first earth satellite.

In addition to the missile controversy, McElroy took a firm stand on the service rivalry question. He said rivalry will be "countenanced" if it jeopardizes defense teamwork, causes wasteful duplication or undermines public confidence.

However, the new secretary emphasized he favors "healthy" competition, which led newsmen to believe that the former soap executive doesn't see any difference between a news conference and a board of directors meeting at P & G.

Disarmament Deadlock — Western observers are virtually no chance that Russia will accept America's conditions for an agreement on controls of space satellites—a study only for the time being and, even that, only with the permission of our allies.

This is merely an extension of the American position at the stalemated disarmament conference in London where the Soviet Union has faced the five Western powers for many months at the bargaining table. The London parley was recessed after Russia rejected what the United States considered to be a "reasonable" set of Western disarmament proposals.

In view of the Soviet attitude at that time, diplomatic circles believe Russia would not accept America's latest terms.

Moscow's bid for a two-way meeting between the United States and the USSR after the successful launching of her satellite was regarded in some quarters as merely an attempt to make propaganda capital out of her scientific victory.

Whether Communist Party Boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, who is above all a hard-headed realist, will okay Soviet participation in new multilateral talks on outer space remains to be seen.

In the first flash of victory in the satellite field, he waved a big stick and, as usual, spoke of peace. When the United States launches its satellites, he may change his tune. On several occasions, he has said that no one can win the next war.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

A bus was bumping along a southern road. In one seat a wispy old man sat, holding a bunch of beautiful fall flowers. Across the aisle was a young girl whose eyes came back again and again to the flowers. The time came for him to get off. Impulsively he thrust the flowers into the girl's lap. "I can see you love them," he explained. "And I think my wife would like you to have them. I'll tell her I gave them to you."

The girl gratefully accepted the flowers, then watched the old man get off the bus and walk slowly through the gate of a village cemetery.

Heard how little Willie used the word "notwithstanding" in a sentence? "My lazy brother Joe wore out his pants but notwithstanding."

It was a beautiful party! I'm still finding guests around the house I didn't know we'd invited.

Acme Hose Co. Purchases Rescue Truck

C.D. Funds Help Buy Equipment

ACME HOSE CO., East Stroudsburg, yesterday completed purchase of a new rescue truck unit.

The three-quarter-ton, four-wheel drive Jeep bought by the fire company will be equipped with modern machinery and tools for use in all kinds of rescue work.

Purchase of the truck unit has been made possible by the Federal Civil Defense "matching fund" system. This means that half the cost of the unit is paid by Federal CD and the other half is paid by the local fire company.

Keys to the truck were turned over to the company yesterday. It is a closed unit which will provide space for the four-member rescue team in addition to all equipment necessary.

Other Equipment

Included in that equipment will be the fire department's iron lung, a resuscitator and an inhalator. Total cost of equipment still to be purchased is $1,900 of which $950 will be paid by the government CD fund and $950 by the company.

Total cost of the fully-equipped unit (including truck cost) is $5,600. It will be available and in use for all alarms answered by the fire department in East Stroudsburg.

Equipment contained in the unit can be used in answering rescue calls involving drowning, fire, and a variety of accidents, company spokesmen said last night.

Marvin Abel, company chief, is also head of the rescue unit. Efforts are now being made to interest all men in the company in training for use of unit equipment. Seven or eight men have already indicated they will serve as members of rescue unit personnel.

Local School Represented At Meeting

TWO STROUDSBURG High School teachers attended the Classroom Teachers Conference at Bedford Springs last weekend.

They were Mrs. Luella Caldwell and Mrs. Mae Jubinsky. The meeting was sponsored by the Department of Classroom Teachers of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

More than 600 teachers from nearly all Pennsylvania school districts attended.

Theme of the conference was "Quality Teaching, Keystone of Progress." Highlight of the conference was an address by Dr. Lyman V. Ginger, president of the National Education Association.

He cited past accomplishments and outlined the expanded program of NEA.

Other speakers included Joseph P. Ludgate, vice president, Student Education Association of Pennsylvania; Harold J. Koch, president, Department of Classroom Teachers and Kermit M. Stover, president of PSEA.

Service Talent Withering?

CARBONDALE, Ill., Oct. 22 (AP)—An internationally known geneticist whose former chief mathematical assistant is now an Army clerk at Fort Lee, Va., today accused the armed forces of allowing top talent to "wither on the vine."

Prof. Carl C. Lindgren, director of biological research at Southern Illinois University, said his former assistant, Ernest Shult, 24, is now performing "relatively useless" duties as an Army stenographer-clerk. This, said Lindgren, was due to "an anti-intellectual instinct apparently held by those in control of the armed forces."

Postoffices Invite Job Applications

APPLICATIONS for substitute clerk and carrier examinations will be accepted at the East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg Postoffices until Oct. 31.

Starting pay for the jobs is $1.82 an hour with annual leave, sick leave, insurance and retirement benefits. Applicants must be at least 18 years of age and in good physical condition.

Applications are available at both postoffices. The examination will be held in the Stroudsburg Postoffice at a time to be announced.

All persons wishing to apply for a clerk-carrier job in the future are urged to take the examination as an entirely new register is being established at each postoffice, according to the postmasters, Fred H. Rhodes of Stroudsburg and Norman B. Gregory of East Stroudsburg.

U. S. Reds Show Renewed Vigor

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said today the Communist party in the United States has taken on a "renewed lease on life" and is mounting a major campaign to influence American teen-agers.

Hoover, writing in the current issue of the American Legion magazine, said the Communist party is starting an expanded propaganda campaign through the use of secret members in civic organizations and church groups.

Millions More To Get Flu

DETROIT, Oct. 22 (AP)—The U. S. surgeon general said today that 30 million more Americans are expected to suffer from Asian flu this winter.

Dr. Leroy E. Burney said, however, that the outbreak in this country is expected to remain mild with a minimal death rate.

In a speech to trustees of the National Sanitation Foundation, Dr. Burney praised pharmaceutical firms for their production of flu vaccine.

He did not give an estimate of the number of Asian flu cases already reported in this country.

Safety Study Clears New Cars

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (AP)—The National Safety Council said today a study "has failed to establish any conclusive relationship between higher horsepower and the rising traffic toll."

"While higher horsepower does increase the top speed potential of motor vehicles, it is absorbed in part by softer tires and in new power accessories.

"Higher horsepower also provides additional acceleration potential, which can reduce distance required for passing other vehicles, thereby contributing to accident prevention.

Leaking Faucet Costly If Repairs Are Delayed

WATER LEAKS are expensive. A dripping faucet allowed to go unrepaired or unreplaced soon would cost plenty, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

The "bloop beep" of dripping faucets can be heard in one out of 15 homes, the bureau estimates. Faucet "drips" is annoying as well as expensive.

Wind-Resistance

TO INCREASE the wind-resistance of asphalt shingles, shingle tabs can be cemented down with quick-setting asphalt cement. This is recommended for roofs in exposed locations where high winds are frequent.

The steady dripping of water on plumbing fixtures often causes a stain which is difficult if not impossible to remove. Since it is usually the hot-water faucet which is dripping, the waste of hot water causes unnecessarily high fuel bills for water heating.

Save Water

Another important factor is the need for water conservation in many sections of the country. While the water table has been dropping generally in nearly all states, there are some sections where the drop has been especially severe.

Tight Money No Bar To Home Improvements

By John O. B. Wallace
AP Newsfeatures

FUNDS FOR home improvements, despite all the talk you might hear about a "tight money" market, are readily available through commercial banks and other financial institutions. We have the word of reliable banking sources for this statement.

Making loans is an important part of the business of any financial institution and, we're assured, they're just as eager to serve you as you are to obtain advice and financial help from them. So, we're told, if you're thinking of installing a new heating system, putting in new plumbing, adding a room, or doing some papering, painting or insulating, there's no need to put it off just because you can't pay for all the work from your cash reserves.

First, get estimates from reliable contractors on your home improvement project. Then determine how much money you'll need to borrow and how much you can conveniently repay out of your monthly budget. This done, you're ready to talk to a bank or other lender.

Home improvement projects can be financed through personal loans obtained from banks, from credit unions and from small loan companies. In some states, however, laws limit the size of these loans and repayment periods are often shorter than for special home improvement loans. Aside from direct loans, it also is possible to pay for home improvements on the installment plan by special arrangement with an individual contractor, dealer or supplier.

It is important, however, in considering such installment contracts to determine whether the carrying charges would exceed the interest you would pay for a regular home improvement loan. There are four principal types of loans which may be available for home improvements through financial institutions. They are: (1) conventional bank installment loans, (2) government-insured Title One loans, (3) open-end mortgage advances, and (4) supplemental loans obtained through mortgage refinancing.

Here are the features of each type of loan:

Conventional bank installment loans.—The bank's major concern here is that the improvement will substantially protect or improve the livability or use of your home and that you will receive certain value for the cost of the project.

The amount and terms of the loan depend primarily on the nature of the improvement and your ability to repay the loan without hardship.

While the interest rate usually is slightly higher, some loans not covered under the government-insured plan may be obtained through the bank's own home-improvement loan program.

Government-insured Title One Loans.—This plan permits a bank or other qualified lender to advance the money under an insurance arrangement with the Federal Housing Administration. The maximum amount available under this plan is $3,500 and the maximum repayment term is five years for loans above $500.

The interest rate generally is a discount of 5¢ per $100 each year. Discount means simply that the full charges are deducted from the amount of the loan at the time the money is borrowed.

Open-End Mortgage Loan.—Should your home mortgage contain an "open-end" provision, additional funds on the same mortgage may be available to you for home improvement purposes.

Supplemental loans through Mortgage Refinancing.—Should you have a conventional mortgage rather than an "open-end" mortgage, you may be able to obtain funds for home improvements by refinancing the existing mortgage and obtaining another mortgage in a new amount.

Dining Room Decor Should Be Pleasant

THE SEPARATE dining room in today's home is considered more or less of a luxury. However, if it exists, it should be treated not only as a functional room, but as a pleasant one, the chief requirements being that its over-all decor presents an air of cheerfulness and hospitality.

The walls form the largest space area in any room and in planning the dining room they should receive special attention. Here, in a room where normally only short stretches of time are spent, greater liberties can be taken with wall decoration. If wallpaper is used, bold, colorful patterns will add zest, stripes will give a formal atmosphere, small provincial prints make an inviting background and murals or scenic views provide interest.

Dark colors or pastel shades are equally appropriate for painting the walls of the dining room, depending largely on the furniture selected.

Blond Finish
Blond or other light finishes will show up better against dark backgrounds while such finishes as walnut, mahogany and cherry will contrast nicely with paler, more subdued wall colors.

When selecting dining-room furniture remember that the well-furnished dining room no longer demands a set of eight or 10 matched pieces. Here interest and personality can be given to the room by using odd but related pieces and as many or as few as desired.

The problem of color-coordination with upholstery in this room is at a minimum for it is limited chiefly to chairs. Colors for these as well as for floor covering and draperies can be taken from the wallpaper designs or can be selected to contrast or blend with painted walls.

Removing Shellac
WORN coatings of shellac can be removed from floors or furniture with denatured alcohol and fine steel wool.

Keep To Warm Side
VAPOR barriers should be only on the warm side of a wall, never the outside.

Stocks Follow Pattern Of Economy

By L. A. Brophy
AP General Business Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (AP)—No doubt there are millions of persons in the country today who are worried about the stock market. They likely are talking to themselves or their friends and neighbors saying: Seems like every time I buy a stock it goes down. Maybe they have a share, 10 shares or a 100 shares. There are two things they have lost sight of: Nothing continues to go up all the time, not even Sputnik. And how high is high; how low is low? These are times when the amateur investor gets hurt and concerned.

You buy stocks for two reasons: To make a profit by selling higher, or as an investment. Almost any stock you bought beginning four years ago and right up to last July went up. Many people with a paper profit of $1, $5 or $10 a share were apt to ask: How long has this been going on? I'll hold and make a $100 a share.

Do they? Very rarely. In the nature of things, the longer they hold the more chances they take of not making any profit at all. In other words, if you are in the market to make a quick buck, don't go to bed with a paper profit. Put it in your pocket. Investment in stocks? Well, if you have the prime blue chips there is not much to worry about. There is no need to be concerned because American Telephone & Telegraph Co. drops almost $4 a share in one day. It is still expected to pay that nice fat $9-a-year dividend; has been doing it for years.

However, if you are holding what Wall Street fondly refers to as growth stocks, there can be some cause for concern. These are issues that take on a glow from the incursions into new fields of scientific achievement.

On a yield basis, some of these stocks are not paying dividends comparable with what you can get on a good bond. Then, why are they popular? Because people consider their horizons are unlimited. But are they? The evidence now seems to indicate that the long arch of the skyrocket boom has flattened out. The rocket is traveling straight now. Will it go up again or go down? That is a question not easily answered but signs point to either a continued level flight or a downturn for various reasons: The enormous backlog of consumer demand from war years is being satisfied; so, the economy is on a plateau but a high one, indeed. The course of the stock market does not always reflect the course of the economy. But often it does and there seems little question it is doing that now.

Since July, the decline of stock prices has been steady and many stocks are getting more in line, considering their prices, with the current yield for hiring money. That is a simple economic fact of life.

Youth Speaks Its Mind, Women Listen At County Federation Meeting Panel

Youth spoke and the women listened at last night's meeting of the Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs held at Greenview Guest Farms. They listened for two hours, more intently and with more interest than to many a highly paid speaker. They listened in silence broken often by laughter and less often by gasps of surprise.

There were surprises for the women from all sections, and in all positions in some of the things the young people on the panel had to say.

They Pulled No Punches.

"In the Stroudsburg, high school etiquette dictates that if you date — you go steady."

"In the West End, the leaders of the West End Youth Center seeking a place to hold their dances have been turned down by many groups, in some cases rudely and in all cases without understanding of their needs."

"In Barrett, the young people want to have a Youth Center of their own, free of adult bickering. They need a separate building, because the Barrett YMCA has been taken over practically ever night by adult group meetings."

"In the churches, certain fuddy-duddies have no interest in the opinions or the desire of youth to serve in an active capacity."

These were some of the more startling opinions expressed by the panel which spoke following the dinner. With Mrs. Eugene Martin dean of girls at East Stroudsburg High School, serving as moderator the group ranged far and wide.

It began with a general discussion on "Appearance, Personality and Popularity."

Be Yourself.

The matter of regulation of school dress by the authority was a subject of some disagreement among members of the panel, but most of them agreed that the standard of school clothes was not determined by the amount of money; that the way a student dresses is often reflected in his actions. Long hair cuts for boys came in for criticism from the girl members of the panel.

Personality and popularity were linked by most of the panel. Among the comments: "You can't work for popularity. It must come from a genuine love of your fellow man within yourself."

"Popularity gained by a sacrifice of your own standards or by pretending to be something you aren't isn't lasting."

No Steady — No Date.

From the general discussion, each member of the panel took up a specific topic with other members adding points of agreement or disagreement afterward.

Deborah Peeney, East Stroudsburg, discussed the matter of "Boy-Girl Relationships and Going Steady."

"Dating and going steady means the same thing in high school etiquette," she charged. Some students don't go steady but then they must go steady but are pressured into it.

Among the advantages she listed the fact that students who go steady are sure of a date for important functions, that there is a sense of security, that it is a haven for the student who is backward socially, and for girls not planning on college may prepare them for homemaking.

The major had point in going steady, she said, is that students who do get too familiar with each other, and tragedies may result. Minor reasons she listed as the fact that going steady gives boys and girls no chance to meet others, and leads to discord in the home.

"It is the parents' responsibility to set the rules and give sound, logical reasons for them in guarding their children," she said.

Her stand met with some disagreement from other members of the panel. While going steady in seventh and eighth grade may be for security reasons, students in senior high have their minds on future marriage, was one opinion.

Another was that tragedies of high school pregnancies often result from lack of sex knowledge rather than going steady. While sex education in the school helps, some members of the panel felt, they also felt that it should begin earlier in the home before the children gathered wrong facts from their contemporaries.

Outside of parental guidance in not going steady, none of the panel had any constructive suggestions for breaking up the present pattern. Program dances would not work except in rare instances.

Just A Cycle?

"Perhaps it's just a cycle that will wear itself out," was one of the most hopeful suggestions, pointing out that in 1890 "going steady" was as prevalent as it is now.

John Moore of Stroudsburg took up the problem of "Where to Go — What to Be" discussing the place of the home environment, the schools' testing and guidance program, the financial contribution which a family could make, and consultations with local men in a field in which they were interested.

"In the final analysis," he said, "using all the helps available, it is the student himself who must make up his mind what he wants to be."

Need Work To Do.

"Youth and the Church" was the theme of the talk by LaVerne Nauman of Barrett Twp. She found the biggest difficulty in the churches the fact that youth is not given enough to do, or a sense of participation.

"Youth really longs to come to real grips with moral problems," she said, "but they are often ignored by the fuddy-duddies who are dominant in the church."

Others of the panel pointed to discussion of current problems and social activities as things which draw young people to the church. All of them agreed that the habit of regular church attendance must be well established by the college age or they will drift away from the church.

The Name And The Game.

Earl Budge, Hamilton Township, is speaking of "Youth and the Home and Community" stressed the importance of mutual understanding and interest in the home and the community.

"A community which regards its young people as delinquents, real or potential, may soon have them having the game as well as the name," he said.

While young people hate advice, they'll often take it when they're parents aren't looking, he admitted, and most teenagers while they have periods of feeling misunderstood feel that their families do really understand them.

He admitted that in order to merit the respect of a community, that youth groups must have a strong leadership that will prevent the prophecies of "no good will come of this" from coming true, but urged that the community needed to keep an open mind as well.

Rev. Robert Galligan, scheduled to give a summary of the youth discussion, summed it up in one word: "Wonderful!"

Clubwomen Report On Co. Projects

The Monroe County Federation of Women's Clubs heard reports on two of its major county projects at the Fall meeting held yesterday afternoon and evening at Greenview Guest Farms.

A complete report of the Mental Health Assn. was given during the afternoon by Mrs. Arthur Henning. The mental health association was sponsored by the county federation and organized at the Spring meeting.

At the dinner, first public announcement of a county-wide survey to determine the needs of the mentally ill to begin next Thursday, was made by Rev. Robert Galligan, a member of the county association.

Also representing a county project, a four-year scholarship to East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, was Miss Carole Hilyard, its first recipient.

Mrs. Claude Leister presided at the afternoon session when she introduced the county chairmen of committees. Speakers were Mrs. George W. Trexler, vice president of the northeastern district, whose theme was "Co-operation" and Mrs. Warren N. Edson, second vice president at large of the state federation whose topic was "Answers to Consumer Problems."

Host to the county's clubwomen was the Progressive Woman's Club of Saylorburg, who had arranged floral centerpieces and Fall place cards. The Progressive Women also provided the entertainment by their own choral group, "The Melodettes."

They sang "I Believe," "Count Your Blessings," "No Man Is An Island" and "America, My Heritage" to great applause, and put the diners in a proper mood for the panel which followed.

Mrs. James Cummings was program chairman, and past presidents of the county federation, now 18 years old, were honored guests.

Parochial Scholars In Uniform

At the first meeting of St. Matthew's Parochial School Parents Assn. on Monday night, it was announced that school uniforms may be worn, beginning next Monday.

Home room mothers were named and the school calendar was outlined. Tentative plans were made for an open house at the school. Earl Slutter, professor of visual education at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, will be the November speaker.

Home room mothers named by James Scanlan, president, are Mrs. John W. Brent, first grade; Mrs. Alexander Kearns, second; Mrs. James Cummings, third; Mrs. Harvey Possinger, fourth; Mrs. Edward T. Yost, fifth; Mrs. Robert Ludgate, sixth; Mrs. Harry Ahnert, seventh; Mrs. Charles Bensinger, eighth.

Future dates on the school calendar include: Nov. 1, All Saints Day holiday; Nov. 11, Armistice Day holiday; Nov. 27, Thanksgiving vacation begins and end of school day; Dec. 2, classes resume; Dec. 20, Christmas vacation begins at close of school day; Jan. 2, classes resume; Jan. 24-30, Diocesan examinations; Jan. 31, holiday.

In the second term: Feb. 3, classes resume; April 2, Easter vacation begins; Apr. 9, classes resume; May 15, Feast of Ascension, holiday; May 28-29, Diocesan examinations; May 30, Memorial Day holiday; June 2-4, diocesan examinations; June 6, school closes.

Reports were given by Mrs. Wesley Beech for auditors; Mrs. Marie Baker, lunch room; Joseph Clampi, treasurer. Rev. Joseph Esseloff spoke briefly.

Refreshments were served by the seventh and eighth grade mothers. Mrs. Harry Ahnert and Mrs. Charles Bensinger formed the reception committee.

The Wyckoff Shopper

The mail arrives, bringing two delightful letters—one from Sally Ferree of WVPO, who says she had a wonderful time serving as judge for the merchandise displays in our store during Women's Days, and another from Mrs. Walter Weber, radio and TV chairman for the Stroudsburg Woman's Club, who expresses appreciation of the series of interviews we conducted with Rama during her stay in the Poconos. The latter is "Tessie" to me, for years ago, when I was a Record reporter, she was Theresa Vogler, working in our main office. I was gratified to see her name listed as a winner of the knitting machine, (second of our big merchandise prizes) when I announced the first twelve winners Saturday. Whether or not she knows how to knit, I cannot say—but a prize couldn't possibly have gone to a nicer person . . .

Everyone's asking how many beads were in the Mermaid's crystal ball. The answer: 12,859. Friday evening when I sat at the guessing desk issuing coupons, I could not help but see that most of the guesses were either three or four figures. While I did not know how many strings of beads were in the globe, I did know that one string which I'd put there had more than 300 beads—so many of the entries were very, very low . . .

Blanche Mackey tells me she was two hours getting Mrs. W. R. Dixon on the telephone to officially announce the winning of the stole. It seems everyone who had been in the store for the drawing was on the wire congratulating her, and she wasn't sure at first whether she was being ribbed or not. As of this writing, she has not yet picked it up—seems she's been down with a touch of the flu . . .

Just stopped by our cosmetic department to torment Pearl Walter and Esther Ainspae, who are in the midst of rearrangement. Display cases are being moved around, new fixtures will go in, and everyone is joining the treasure hunt, hoping to find money under the counters. So far only a few pennies have been retrieved. "I'm really surprised at this," I ventured. "Usually we tear up and re-build the day before Christmas." Jack LaBar scowled, and suggested I go upstairs and get to work. "And as for you, Esther," I volunteered, watching my old buddy wielding a broom, "You could do THAT at home." Esther was unperturbed. "THAT," she admitted, "you could say again—and again." . . .

Our cosmetic department is now carrying the Angelique perfumes—those intoxicatingly wonderful fragrances: Red Satin, Gold Satin, White Satin, Black Satin, and the very newest—Pink Satin. White Satin is as demure as a bride; Black Satin is sly and a bit naughty, Pink Satin is—well, they're all entrancing, let's put it that way, and not at all expensive . . .

That LaBar must be psychic! Just as I write about perfumes, he comes by, reeking to high heaven of Chanel Number 5. My Sin, and just about every other fragrance available in a cosmetic department. "Boy, what a walking advertisement I am," he groans. "Everytime I walk past one of those women down there, they 'flit' me with the perfume bottle." It's a good thing his wife, Jeanette, is working in the adjacent handbag department and can see what's going on—she might otherwise find the story a bit far fetched . . .

Winner of our beautiful Kellier basket of jams, jellies, and candies, was Miss Hilda Newbaker of Delaware Avenue, Portland, who was taken to the Tea Room, fete at tea by Blanche Mackey, Women's Days vice president; Betty Frantz, display manager, and myself. Accompanied by her sister, Miss Newbaker was shopping our candy department just at 3:30 as I stood by the microphone upstairs ready to announce the Queen's identity. A crown had been pasted on the floor in front of one of the display cases, and as she stepped upon it, Blanche grabbed her arm and asked her name. "I nearly fainted," Miss Newbaker told me, "I thought I'd done something wrong, and I couldn't figure out what it would have been." Miss Newbaker is a teacher in the fourth grade of the East Bangor school, and has been shopping Wyckoff's happily for a long time. It was a pleasure meeting her, and seeing her so enthusiastic over "the first thing I ever won." . . .

Saddest news of Saturday was the illness of Betty Bartholomew, our Women's Days president, who went home early Friday, so hoarse she could barely speak. Monday found her still under the weather, but we hope she'll be back on deck soon.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

If you want to generalize from the particular, you can say one thing about today's young people: they aren't tongue-tied.

Of course, generalization is always a dangerous thing. I had to keep reminding myself that the panel at the federation meeting last night was made up of selected students.

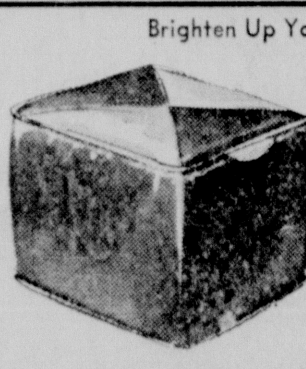

Because if all young people were as clear in their thinking, as forthright in their expression of that thinking, as honest in their appraisal of themselves as well as of adults, and as persuasive in their arguments—I doubt if there would be such a thing as a youth problem.

Maybe, as the man says, Johnny can't read—but Johnny can talk and Johnny can think on his feet in front of a roomful of women, if we can take that group as representatives of Johnny. I doubt if many of us from "the good old days" could have—or would have—done it.

And these Johnnies obviously had read, as well. But please give their audience credit, too. It had been a long day with lots of speeches. It was a dinner calculated to make a nap on the couch seem mighty appealing. The temperature rose minute by minute.

But not a head nodded, not a woman started rutching around. They listened, not only with their ears, but with heads and their hearts. Whatever complaints young people may have about adults in general, they can't believe that those particular women aren't WALT THIEL, at present the golf professional at Glen Brook Country Club, has accepted a similar position at resurging Wolf Hollow Country Club, Delaware Water Gap.

Thiel confirmed the report Sunday that he plans to run the golf shop and handle the links at the not-yet-completed "Gap" 18-hole course.

Work has been moving along steadily at Wolf Hollow. The finishing touches on the once-famed course are all but completed; and construction of a wading pool for children and swimming pool for the bigger human beings are already written in the books.

The spot which at one-time featured such great golfers as Gene Sarazen, Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel and Francis Quiliet, will open its doors for public consumption next spring.

Marty Baldwin, the you break 'em and we fix 'em athletic equipment man, took in the Oyster Bowl game in Virginia between Navy and Georgia.

The Middies won, 27-13, and in a card penned before the tussle, Baldwin predicted Navy to win by three touchdowns.

Incidentally Baldwin traveled from Baltimore, Md. to Virginia Beach by overnight boat ride.

Oscar (Okay) Stucky continues to raise the eyebrows of the local bowling genies with his phenomenal keggling. Saturday in the Industrial League Okay was Okay, pounding out a 658 to take over the average edge in the loop.

Stucky is now banging away at a 190 pace in the Industrial, gaining a six-point lead over second place occupant Jim Harmon Sr. who now rests at 184. Pete Grover is third with 182.

Stucky's seven-point average gain in one match came on games of 232, 224 and 202. It set a new record for the not yet two-year-old circuit.

Quite an honor was bestowed on Sgt. Marshall (Skeets) Bessecker the other day when he was selected as the best first baseman playing baseball in the United States Air Force. Skeets' nomination automatically gave him a berth on the All-USAF all-star squad.

Bessecker is a graduate of Pocono Township High, Tannersville, where he starred in basketball and basketball.

Resides leading the Lackland AF Base nine to the Southwest Conference title in the "World Air Force" Tournament at Albuquerque, N. M., Marshall has started and helped youngsters along while serving in an official capacity in Lackland and San Antonio, Tex., Little League.

His duties with the Air Force are in the physical education department. Officially he is titled athletic instructor of the 3700th Air Base Squadron, Lackland.

Stroudsburg High has scheduled a basketball game with Delaware Valley Joint High of Milford for December. Delaware Valley is one of the leading independent school basketball teams in their area.

Incidentally, the Lansford basketball tournament in which Stroudsburg accepted a bid, is off. Lack of interested teams was given as the reason.

Benny Jones, former Stroudsburg resident who later coached at Lehigh Valley High, has a 3-2 record at Gettysburg High where he took over this fall. All Ben needs is one more win to better the school's mark of last year.

Undeclared Cavaliers Prepare For Wilson

UNBEATEN East Stroudsburg High settled down to serious drills yesterday in anticipation of its biggest test of the season, thus far, when high and mighty Wilson High invades Memorial Stadium Friday night.

"They have a well-balanced club," Cavalier mentor Jack Kist surveyed in going over the scouting reports of Warrior games this season.

"Hall has depth in practically every position and some of the so-called second-stringers could make the first teams of some schools," Kist noted.

"We're not in too bad of shape physically. Although we might be without the services of first string end Bob Stine and regular guard Denny Patti Friday," he said.

Treible Leads Eastburg JVs To 13-9 Win

BANGOR — Pete Treible's two long touchdown runs in the first quarter carried East Stroudsburg High's junior varsity football team to a 13-9 victory over Bangor's underlings here yesterday.

Treible, a halfback, broke around left end and raced 64 yards for the first TD, and not long after shifted around right end and jaunted 52 yards for the second.

Gets Extra Point

Vic Aiyin plunged across for the Little Cavaliers extra point after Treible's last touchdown.

The Eastburg lead held up until the last period when Bangor scored all of its points.

The Little Slayers got two points when Jack Williams tackled Aiyin in the end zone, and a short while later picked up its TD on a one-yard buck by Bunny Reimer. Harold Cummings place kicked Bangor's ninth point.

The linescore:

Eastburg 13 0 0 0-13
Bangor 0 0 0 0-9

STC Lassies Home Today

EAST Stroudsburg Teachers' girls hockey team will shoot for its third win of the season today, hosting Gettysburg's lassies on the Warriors' field. Stick time is 4 p.m.

This will be the first of three contests for Miss Katherine Griffith's girls in one week. Friday, the Warriors travel to West Chester, while next Tuesday the Gettysburgs will entertain Lock Haven in a makeup of a postponed game.

Mrs. Andrews and Miss Underwood are co-captains of this year's team.

Middle Center Back At Tackle

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 21 (AP)—Burly Bob Reinsnyder, who was converted from tackle to center on the Navy football team this year, was back at tackle today as the Middies began preparations for the Penn game this week. Reinsnyder returned to his old position because of an injury to Jim Martinez, 234-pound senior from Frackville, Pa., in Navy's 27-14 victory over Georgia Saturday. Martinez is out for the rest of the season with torn ligaments in his right knee.

Commercial 'B' In Action Today

COMMERCIAL 'B' League will bowl today at Harmon's Recreation, East Stroudsburg, starting at 7 p.m. The schedule:

Alleys one and two—Courtland Beverage vs. L. and B. Appliances.

Alleys three and four—Frank the Barber vs. Eagles "B".

Alleys five and six—Ye Sayers Inn vs. Babe's Service Station.

Bad Sprain

Stine has been nursing a bad ankle sprain since the Bangor game, while Patti has been bedded down at home all week with illness.

East Stroudsburg hopes got somewhat of a lift when Kist announced that last season's regular fullback will see limited duty against the Warriors.

Miller, the team's punter, has seen only very little service since the season began. The chunky back has been sidelined most of the time with an injured knee. However, the limb was not the one he uses for kicking and for the reason, Kist has been able to get punting duty out of the Portland resident.

Light Workouts

"We don't plan any heavy contact work this week," Kist answered a question to the drill setup. "We can't afford to lose anyone, especially now that we're coming up against a squad that is three-team deep."

The Cavaliers, riding a four-game win streak, will be meeting a Wilson eleven that is 4-1 on the season. After losing to Easton in its opener, Wilson easily packed away four-straight triumphs.

Heading the list of highly regarded Warrior backs are Bobby Kline and Harold Helm, halfbacks; Ron Heinrich, fullback; and quarterbacks Bobby Barr and Denny Elliot.

The Wilson line is anchored by Elmer Johnson and Phil Brozman, two tackles that tip the beam above the 215-pound mark.

1st Little Army-Navy Tilt On Grid Set For Saturday

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—The first Little Army-Navy football game will be played at Annapolis Saturday, and if you think the Cadet corps gets steamed up about the big team, you should hear them rave about the 150-pounders.

Army never fielded a 150-pound team until this year while Navy has dominated the Eastern light-weight league ever since it entered this field. Now the Cadets, coached by Eric Tipton, have won their first two games by lopsided scores from Columbia and Cornell and are out to knock the Midshipmen off their high perch.

Enthusiasm

"The enthusiasm is natural," said Lt. Barney Gill, who coaches the Army junior varsity. "We have a lot more 150-pound boys here than we have big ones. Several of the players were on the JV team last year and a couple were on the varsity squad. But they quit to go with the 150s."

Rules of the Eastern 150-pound football league require that players must weigh in at less than 154 pounds the day before the game. When some 300 candidates turned out for the first Army team last spring, Tipton, one-time Duke University star, ruled out all who weighed over 160. He figured they'd hurt themselves trying to make the weight.

"I never thought I'd see the day when I'd consider a 160-pounder as fat," Tipton sighed.

Bar Scouting

The rules also bar scouting of opposing teams and don't permit practice before a late September date coinciding with the start of classes at most colleges. Some of the cadets wanted to practice early with the JVs and then switch to the 150-pound squad, but Earl Black, head coach and athletic director wouldn't permit this.

The Little Army-Navy game will be played with all the big game trimmings and it even has been rumored that President Eisenhower will attend. It's the final game to be played in Navy's Thompson Stadium, soon to be replaced, and it will be broadcast and televised on stations in the Washington-Baltimore area.

Membership 580 In Blue Mt. R-G

BANGOR — Membership was reported at 580 and the current goal set at 600 when the Blue Mt. Rod and Gun Club, Bangor, convened at the club house Monday night with Paul Dunbar, president, in charge.

It was decided to purchase 1,000 membership buttons and an additional dozen shoulder patches. Car emblems also are to be secured.

A dead mark shoot was scheduled for Nov. 3, a Sunday, at the grounds. Hams, chickens and turkeys will be offered as prizes. A square dance also was planned for Saturday, Dec. 14, at the Blue Valley Farm Show auditorium.

Repairs to the road to the club grounds were ordered. It was reported that wild turkeys encountered by sportsmen to date were in poor physical condition.

A film on water skiing was shown during the social hour. Next month the film will be "White-Tailed Buck."

Try the Board Method
WHETHER the spot system of bowling is best, or whether it's simpler to pick a board along which to roll the ball is debatable. The stars are about equally divided as far as releasing of the ball is concerned.

I recommend the board method. In teaching, I find that my pupils more readily develop the all-important reaching follow-through for direction when they employ the board method. The spot procedure invites a quick, hurried, snap release of the ball; and this, of course, eliminates all chance of applying hook spin. It also tends to cause a quick turn of the wrist at release, pulling the arm out of the swinging groove and driving the ball high on the head pin.

Develop

Practice to develop push-away of the ball at the outset, feel the ball weight in swing, close to the body (see sketch). Be sure to yourself so that your feet are pointed straight ahead. A foul line and the pins. And pick a spot at the foul line at which to finish your stride with a slide, the left foot still straight ahead. Pick a board—10 or 12 boards in from the gutter—and swing all the way through to send the ball along that board. You'll soon get the feeling of the thumb releasing from the ball first, allowing the fingers to apply hook spin.

Ohio State In Driver's Seat In Bowl Race

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 22 (AP)—Two upsets last week put a curve in the Rose Bowl race in Big Ten football. But if a team were to be assigned the driver's seat at this time, it could be Ohio State.

When winless Purdue knocked off unbeaten and top-ranked Michigan State 20-13 and Illinois sprung a 34-13 homecoming ambush of fourth-rated Minnesota, the road to the Rose Bowl became a bumpy prospect.

MSU was highly favored to represent the Big Ten at Pasadena in the New Year's classic and still is very much in contention.

Rough Schedule

Minnesota was a slightly less likely choice simply because it faced an unprecedented schedule of playing eight straight conference games.

Ohio State always was considered but did not have prime stature after being jolted by Texas as Christian in its season opener. Iowa, only unbeaten team in Big Ten play along with Ohio State, may repeat for the championship but is ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl after appearing there last season.

At this point, Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois also must be considered since each has lost only one conference game.

With the exception of Indiana and possibly Northwestern, the Big Ten has exceptional balance this season.

Ohio State has defeated Illinois and Indiana and has five more conference games remaining starting with Wisconsin Saturday and following with Northwestern, Purdue, Iowa and Michigan. The Buckeyes, who trimmed California 17-14 in the 1956 Rose Bowl and USC 20-7 in 1955, have a break in that they don't play Michigan State or Minnesota.

Ohio State also has the advantage over Michigan State of playing a seven-game Big Ten slate. One loss from here out would leave the Buckeyes with a 6-1 record. The Spartans have a six-game chart, and having lost one already, could finish at best with 5-1.

Seven-game schedules also are played by Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois—each of whom have one defeat.

Iowa, Utah, Colorado Top Attacks

By The Associated Press

IOWA, Colorado and Utah are the leading offense teams in college football and Saturday's Colorado-Oklahoma game shapes up as a head-on meeting between two of the most potent attacks in the college game.

After a near-record romp against Kansas State last week, the Colorado Buffs moved into the lead among major college teams in rushing and third in total offense. Unbeaten Oklahoma, which came close to the Buffs figures in whipping Kansas, is 10th in total offense and sixth in ground attack.

Tuning up for the effort to stop the Sooners winning streak at 44 straight, Colorado ran for 478 yards and passed for 169 in its 42-14 victory over Kansas State. The 647-yard total was one short of the season's one-game high, made by Iowa against Utah State. But the Buffs' 35 first downs set a season mark and the two team total of 921 yards—274 by K. State—was another high for the year.

Sooners 11th

Oklahoma, national leader in rushing and total offense for the past two seasons, gained 511 yards—418 by rushing—in its 47-0 victory over Kansas. The total moved the Sooners up from 18th in total offense and 16th in rushing to its present top ten positions. But at the same time Colorado advanced from seventh and ninth in the two tables.

Iowa's defending Big Ten champions gained 330 yards in beating Wisconsin 21-0, far below their season average. But Michigan State, after leading in total offense for one week, fared even worse in losing to Purdue and slipped to second place in the overall standings.

455.5 Average

Iowa shows an average of 455.5 yards per game in total offense, compared to 449.3 for Michigan State and 431.2 for Colorado.

In rushing, Colorado has a 333.2 yards per game average—up from 297 the week before—while Michigan State, on top a week ago, dropped to eighth place at 284.5 after gaining 115 yards on the ground against Purdue.

Iowa's yard-gaining strength shows in the passing statistics, where the Hawkeyes are third behind Utah and Washington State. Although Iowa has completed 36 passes, it has gained 709 yards through the air for an average of 17.3 yards per game.

Utah, which has completed as many passes as Iowa has thrown, 69, has averaged 190.6 yards per game and Washington State 179.2.

Iowa also retained the major college scoring lead although the 21 points against Wisconsin was well below its 39.5 per game average.

41 Unmarred College Teams

By The Associated Press

ELEVEN major college football teams and 31 minor teams still can boast all-winning records with about half the season left. Last weekend's epidemic of upsets took a heavy toll of the unbeaten and untied teams.

An Associated Press survey yesterday showed the major schools with perfect states included Duke, Mississippi, Texas A & M, with five victories each; Oklahoma, Dartmouth, Auburn, Iowa, Arizona State of Tempe, Texas Western and Drake, with four wins each; and Notre Dame with three.

Alleys five and six—Charltons vs. Detrick's.

Boyd And Szuzina Renew Warfare In Video Bout

By BOB POWELL

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Oct. 22 (AP)—Television boxing fans get a rematch of a split-decision middleweight bout tomorrow night when a German journeyman and a slugger on the comeback trail meet in a 10-rounder at the war memorial auditorium.

Franz Szuzina, stocky slugger from Bremen, Germany, and one-time top ranking middle contender Bobby Boyd of Chicago go at it again. Their bout in Miami Beach last March 26 went the limit with Boyd winning the split decision.

Broke Jaw

Boyd's ring career was stalled last September when he ran into a jaw-breaking punch from Joey Giardello in Cleveland. At the time Boyd was No. 1 contender.

His rise in the ring world was marked with victories over the likes of Tony Anthony, ex-champion Gene Fullmer, Holly Mims and Eduardo Lausse.

Since starting his comeback, Boyd has beaten Eddie Demars, Rocky Castellani and Willie Vaughn, twice.

Szuzina won many new fans in his last appearance last month when he outpointed lanky Randy Sandy.

41-18-15

Szuzina has a record of 41 wins, 18 losses and 12 draws. He has 28 knockouts. Boyd's record includes 45 wins against seven losses and two draws. Boyd has knocked out 22 opponents. The German won five of eight bouts this year.

Two judges and the referee will score the fight on the round system. The point system will augment the scoring to avoid a draw.

The fight will be broadcast and televised nationally (ABC-radio, TV, 9 p. m., EST.).

Pastrano Wins Easy Decision

LONDON, Oct. 22 (AP)—Willie Pastrano of New Orleans, a magnificent boxer with lightning hands, jabbed Britain's Dick Richardson into a blood-dripping wreck tonight to win a 10-round decision in a heavy-weight bout. Pastrano weighed 188½; Richardson 199.

The lighter Pastrano, a veteran of 33 fights although only 21, fainted and faked his Welsh opponent wide open and then sent straight lefts to the head in damaging clusters.

The sight of that familiar yellow school bus means one important thing to the careful driver—BE ESPECIALLY CAUTIOUS! Wise motorists know that children are not always as careful as they should be. Young minds can easily forget the rules of safety. This means added responsibility to every driver of a motor vehicle.

When following or approaching a school bus on the road, the motorist must stop when the bus stops. Drive with extra care through school or play areas, remembering always that a ball or toy rolling into the street may be quickly followed by a child. Be a cautious, thoughtful, safe driver. The child you save may be your own.

Mollet Agrees To Organize New Cabinet

PARIS, Oct. 22 (AP)—Socialist Guy Mollet agreed today to try a comeback as premier. Prospects were good he would be able to form a Cabinet ending a 22-day crisis.

Mollet was thrown out last May by the same rightist groups that now agree to let him try again. He had set a postwar record by staying in office 15 months.

President Rene Coty called in the man he had wanted all along and asked him to attempt the task of forming a government.

Mollet accepted after virtual assurance from the rightist leader, Antoine Pinay, that his conservatives will not vote against him at a time when France is deep in a financial crisis.

The 52-year-old Socialist leader, who with Britain's Sir Anthony Eden planned the Suez attack a year ago, looked rather tired and preoccupied as he emerged from a meeting with Coty.

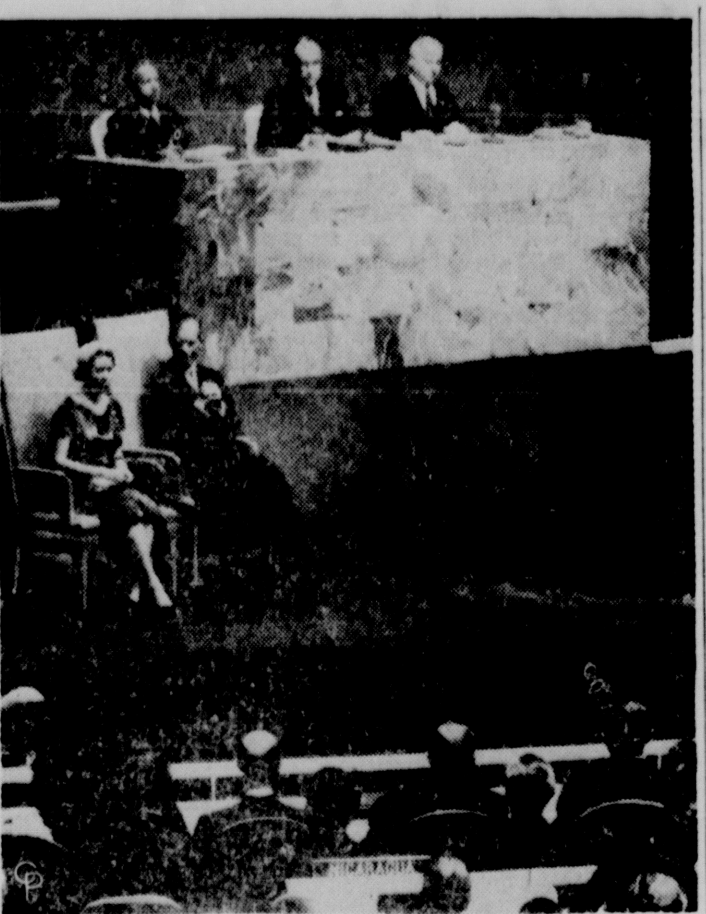

Mollet told reporters he could not refuse the request in the present circumstances and because of the seriousness of the situation.

He arranged a meeting with caretaker Premier Maurice Bourg-Maunoury. He begins talks with party leaders tomorrow. He did not say when he expected to have his Cabinet formed to go before Parliament.

Apparent solution of the crisis came none too soon for France. With the treasury nearly empty, fresh funds must be found to settle state bills at the end of the month.

Nationwide strikes against leap living costs have been called for next Friday. The United Nations is about to debate French-ruled Algeria. France is absent from vital British-U. S. talks in Washington.

The political crisis opened Sept. 30 when Bourg-Maunoury, a Radical-Socialist, was defeated on his plan for giving rebellious Algeria partial home rule.

CLIMAXING HER VISIT TO THE UNITED STATES, Queen Elizabeth II is shown as she was about to address the 82-nation General Assembly of the United Nations in New York. Beside her is Prince Philip. In her address, the Queen urged diplomats from both sides of the Iron Curtain not to be discouraged in the quest for peace.

Plant Official Testifies He Plotted Again Union

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP)—An official of Morton Frozen Foods, Inc., told the Senate rackets investigating committee today he worked secretly to keep a union out of Morton's plant at Webster City, Iowa, then encouraged the organizing efforts of another union.

Other witnesses testified the second union—the Bakery Workers—got "a very poor contract" with Morton. And the company official, Keith Binns, conceded wages would have been "considerably higher than they are now" had the organizing drive of the first union—the United Packinghouse Workers—been successful.

One of the other witnesses, Mrs. Phyllis Ring, testified she was requested to resign as secretary to the general manager of the Webster City plant after she cooperated with the rackets investigating committee.

"You think you lost your job simply because you cooperated with this committee?" asked chairman McClellan (D-Ark.).

"I honestly don't know," she replied.

Blocked Drive

Binns, former general manager at Webster City, said Morton hired Nathan W. Shefferman, a Chicago consultant who figured in earlier committee hearings, to block the 1955 drive of the Packinghouse Workers. He said Shefferman agents also were used by Morton to help the Bakery Workers sign up plant employees a year later.

He noted that after the Packinghouse drive failed, the Webster City plant became part of the big Continental Baking Co. He said Continental had contracts throughout the country with the Bakery union.

The committee recently investigated corruption charges against bakery union officials. The union faces suspension from the AFL-CIO, which has called it corruptly administered.

The testimony came as a series of extended hearings on charges that employers used union-busting tactics outlawed by the Taft-Hartley labor relations act. Earlier sessions dealt largely with allegations of wrongdoing by some union officials.

Firms Probed

McClellan said at the outset that a dozen firms are under investigation.

He said also that the committee would try to develop "the true story" of Shefferman's activities as a consultant to firms with labor troubles. Shefferman testified before the committee last spring in connection with his admitted close association with Dave Beck, retiring president of the Teamsters Union.

Plan A-Powered Launch Ships

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 22 (AP)—Rear Adm. Walter G. Schindler told today of plans to build a fleet of atomic-powered, guided missile launching ships in competition with Russia.

Schindler declared Russia is building toward a goal of 1,200 submarines to help "isolate the United States by control of the seas."

He said domination of the oceans still means domination of the world.
